

America by Rail 2012 Calendar (Wall Calendar)

America is a land of wonders, famed French visitor Alexis de Tocqueville wrote in 1835, in which everything is in constant motion. Railroads have been a prime means of seeing those wonders since well before 1869, when the linkup of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific lines initiated the era of coast-to-coast train service. The twelve posters in this calendar, works of art as well as advertisements, celebrate the romance of exploring Americas seashores, deserts, plains, and mountains by rail. All are from the collections of the Library of Congress. Size: 12 x 13 in.; opens to 12 x 26 in. Printed on FSC certified paper with soy-based inks.
