TRAVIS of the Northern Plains Book Two of the Tales of the Binnah Alpha. Travis was grown in a Petri dish and raised in the City Dwellers Society. All he had ever known was the City of Louis in the reconstructed United States. He had been deemed a worker from early childhood, educated to be caged in a work cubicle for the rest of his adult life, mentally chained to a computer. Travis came to hate everything about his life and wanted change. That is until Travis on impulse signed up for a class in ancient sustainable gardening. And that's when his life took an unsuspected turn. Latent DNA of a Binnah ALPHA ancestor flowed through his veins and came alive thanks to a man named Enoch who taught the class. Enoch spotted Travis as a potential ALPHA immediately. Through his unique DNA and Enoch's change in diet for him, Travis was launched into a new life full of fearful change and wonderful possibilities. He escaped the City Dwellers and ran to the Coltrane camp in Colorado Territory to become a Binnah ALPHA recruit where he would receive his training. Travis embraced this new life with visions of finally getting to have a conversation with a real person instead of a computer, discovering the joy of sex and bonding with a mate and leading a pack of wolves. Finding a new home and family, Travis faces intrigue and hidden enemies fighting to become the Binnah ALPHA warrior he is destined to be.
