Part of the Sapphire Desire Series While out in the wilderness taking photos for a travel magazine, photographer Jane Evanss car slides off the road during a sudden snowstorm. She is found by Avery and Caleb Stanton, two tantalizingly good-looking twins, and taken back to their cabin in the mountains, where she also meets the handsome, masterful Everett McKinnon. Not only are the three men strangers to her, but they're also powerfully built, quite mysterious and terribly sexy. Trapped in the mountain cabin because of the blizzard, Jane soon learns the three men haven't been with a woman in quite some time, and they are as erotically drawn to her as she is to them. But, much to her astonishment, she also discovers that the three turn into wolves once a month, and the time of their imminent change is fast approaching. Will she survive their transformations into wolves and, even if she does, will Everett allow her to leave or even remain alive now that she's discovered their secret?
